Foreword

ISO (the International Organization for Standardization) is a worldwide federation of national standards bodies (ISO member bodies). The work of preparing International Standards is normally carried out through ISO technical committees. Each member body interested in a subject for which a technical committee has been established has the right to be represented on that committee. International organizations, governmental and non-governmental, in liaison with ISO, also take part in the work. ISO collaborates closely with the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) on all matters of electrotechnical standardization.

The procedures used to develop this document and those intended for its further maintenance are described in the ISO/IEC Directives, Part 1. In particular the different approval criteria needed for the different types of ISO documents should be noted. This document was drafted in accordance with the editorial rules of the ISO/IEC Directives, Part 2 (see www.iso.org/directives).

Attention is drawn to the possibility that some of the elements of this document may be the subject of patent rights. ISO shall not be held responsible for identifying any or all such patent rights. Details of any patent rights identified during the development of the document will be in the Introduction and/or on the ISO list of patent declarations received (see www.iso.org/patents).

Any trade name used in this document is information given for the convenience of users and does not constitute an endorsement.

For an explanation on the voluntary nature of standards, the meaning of ISO specific terms and expressions related to conformity assessment, as well as information about ISO's adherence to the World Trade Organization (WTO) principles in the Technical Barriers to Trade (TBT) see the following URL: www.iso.org/iso/foreword.html

This document was prepared by ISO/PC 273, Customer contact centres.

A list of all the parts of ISO 18295 can be found on the ISO website.

Introduction

The ongoing success and development of any organization relies on its understanding of the expectation levels and perceptions of its customers. The results of specific consumer research by ISO's Consumer Policy Committee (COPOLCO) prompted an initial request to member bodies to assess the interest in a customer-focused contact centres standard.

Service standards are an important element of service management excellence; they help clarify expectations for clients and employees, enable performance management, and support client and customer satisfaction. This document specifies requirements and gives guidance for using the services of in-house (captive) centres and outsourcers (third party providers) on behalf of customers. It is intended to be used for any customer interaction with a Customer Contact Centre (CCC).

Implementation of this document and ISO 18295-1 can create value for the customer, the client, the employee and the CCC, improving the robustness and efficiency of service, the client/CCC relationship, therefore enabling the CCC to deliver a higher level of customer experience on behalf of the client.

ISO 18295 comprises two parts (see Figure 1).

This document specifies requirements for the client organization that mandates the CCC (in-house CCC and/or the outsourcer). A CCC is not responsible for certain aspects of products and services which remain the responsibility of the client organization.

This document aims to ensure that customer expectations are consistently met through the provision and management of appropriate arrangements with CCCs meeting the requirements of this document.

ISO 18295-1 specifies requirements for CCCs which are either in-house or managed by an outsourcer. It deals with certain aspects of products and services which remain the responsibility of the client organisation, rather than the CCC.

Part 2:

Requirements for clients using the services of customer contact centres

1 Scope

This document specifies requirements for organizations using the services of customer contact centres (CCC). It aims to ensure that customer expectations are consistently met through the provision and management of appropriate arrangements with CCCs meeting the requirements of ISO 18295-1.

This document is applicable to clients using CCCs of all sizes, across all sectors including in-house (captive) centres and outsourced (third party operator) centres, across multiple contact channels, including voice and non-voice media.
